

8th March 2024

Holiday Credit

We are pleased to say that easyJet holiday vouchers will be awarded again this year. The company have confirmed this to us this week.

You'll also have seen the email about performance shares last week which is another positive step we welcome from the company.

Court Hearing

We attended court again this week to legally challenge the company's actions towards one of our members. We hope for a successful outcome as we have seen in all of our previous court cases to date.

Payroll Meeting

We will meet with the Payroll Team again on 15th March to discuss ongoing and newly raised issues. On the list of topics we have to talk about are problems with IRPF levels and the application of easyJet holiday credit gross up/taxation. We also want to raise an issue we have identified with sick pay and will come back to you with an update when we have heard the company's response.

ALC Base Visit Days

We have asked clarification on base welcome dates in ALC and are waiting for a response. We'll contact those of you transferring to ALC when we receive clarity from the company.

Have a great weekend everyone!
